RIO DE JANEIRO

Rio Palace

What's left to say about Rio? It's one of those extravagantly praised cities of the world where all the clichés are true. The Copacabana is the most beautiful urban beach in the world. Ipanema is as colorful, vibrant, and full of beautiful girls as the song that celebrates it. Sugar Loaf is awe-inspiring. Carnaval is the most lavish festival anywhere in the civilized world. And to see it all at its best, there is no better place than the Rio Palace, a luxurious hotel overlooking Copacabana and just steps from Ipanema . . . two of the world's most famous beaches virtually at your door. From your balcony, this glorious city is at your beck and call, to admire from afar or, better, to explore up close. Intriguing shops, seductive restaurants, sun-splashed days, sensual nights. A must, at least once in your lifetime.

CANNES

Hotel Gray D'Albion

Probably the most celebrated, and certainly the most celebrity-studded resort town in the world, Cannes still exerts its magnetic attraction after years in the spotlight. With its palm-lined boulevards . . . id hotels, this star of the Côte d'Azur is a long-running hit. Home of the Cannes Film Festival, Cannes has seen it all, and trends continue to be set on its beaches that ripple out across the world. Besides its frenetic day and night life, Cannes offers ancient castle ruins, and scores of other sightseeing possibilities. Arriving by air via Paris, winners will find themselves ensconced in luxury at the Gray D'Albion, temptingly located among elegant boutiques and the famous Croissette promenade and with its own private beach. Full American breakfasts start the day, concierge service is available around the clock, and for late music and dancing the place to be is Le Janes, right in the hotel and the liveliest club in Cannes.
